THE INTERNATIONAL BILLIARD TOURNA-MENT-EACH HAS LOST ONE MATCH.

The final game of the international billiard tourna nent in this city was played at the Madison Square Garden Concert Hall last night, between Frank C. ives, the champion, and Jacob Schaefer, his veteran ex-instructor. Four games of a different style of billiards will be played in Boston later, and after that the cue experts will delight the lovers of billiards in Chicago with contests in that city.

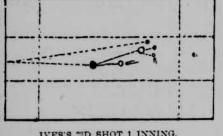

Ives gave another splendid exhibition, and took lead at the start. He grew careless about the middle of the game, at one time scoring only twelve points in seven innings. Schaefer played a wonderful uphill game in the last half, and practically had the game won when he ran up 176 points in the thirteenth inning, taking the lead, Ives and Schaefer are now tied on the series, each having lost one game. It is said that the deciding game in the early part of the game. Two bets were made before the game began, at the odds of $50 to $15 in favor of Ives. Plenty of the spectators wanted to

The tournament at Boston will begin on April 13, and will be conducted on different lines from the games just finished. The management tried to in duce George Slosson to enter the coming series in Boston as a representative of this city, but Slosson refused the overture, and Maurice Daly has concluded to enter the tournament. Ives scored 34 more points in the fifth inning, increasing his lead to 272, to 15 for Schaefer, and it was beginning to look like a procession. In the sixth inning Ives made one and missed an easy carrom.

Schaefer showed a flash of some of his oid-time skill in this inning and before he sat down, he had counted 34. He made 28 in the seventh, bringing his total up to 99, to 232 for Ives.

The next few innings dragged along heavily, neither man showing his real form. Schaefer collected a bunch of 22 in the ninth inning. From the eighth to the thritteenth inning, Ives did not score, and he made four consecutive misses, the crowd showed its surprise, and there were some murmurs of discontent.

SCHAEFER TAKES THE LEAD.

Ives ticked off 33 in the thirteenth inning, missing e bank, and bringing his total up to 267. Schaefer showed at his best in this inning, and he received a storm of applause for his 190th shot, which he made at 2:45. The applause lasted for several utes and increased when "The Wizard" passed Schaefer's 150th shot was a splendid kiss off the lower rail, a particularly difficult shot. There was a wild yell when "The Wizard" made his 165th point, which tied him with Ives on totals for the night. He made 176 points, the next largest run of the tournament, and had a lead of largest run of the tournament, and had a lead of 11 points over Ives.

A YALE BALL TEAM DISBANDS.

New-Haven, Conn., April 4.- The Yale Law School hall nine has abandoned its Southern trip. The team had four games scheduled the latter part of this and the first of next week with colleges in Western Pennsylvania, but they were obliged to ncel them, owing to snow in the mountains of that State. The team has disbanded temporarily, and a few of the players arrived in this city last night to spend the remainder of their vacation here.

The New Odorless Matches.

The Continental Match Company have put a new match on the market which bids fair to supersede those now in use. The new match is called the Continental, and is absolutely edorless, and no smell of any kind being emitted when ignited. For this reason it is especially adapted for

The team is an unusually strong one, comparing favorably with any former aggregation of Australian talent, and is especially powerful in bowling, the quality and variety being considered likely to prove more effective than the star performances of Spofforth, Palmer, Garrett or Boyle, Giffen, Graham, Trumble, Gregory and Trott are well known in the United States, for they were with the team which played here in 1892. The batting is strong right through, but the team is not possessed either of any remarkably hard hitters or "stonewallers," for which former Australian teams have been noted.

The absence of Blackham, the great wicket-keeper, will be regretted, especially when it is known that he has had to retire permanently from the cricket field owing to an injury sustained recently. His place will be filled by Johns or Kelly, both capable men behind the sticks.

The color scheme, while rich, is subdued, and the whole conception bears more resemblance to a painting than to the ordinary form of engrossing. The text is framed in conventionalized thistic leaves, broken by a dainty water-color of Elinburgh Castle. Under the signatures of the president and secretary of the Golf Association there is a view of New-Amsterdam. As an initial, a golf herald, sounding greeting from his trumpet, is intended to convey still more plainly the desire for most cordial relations between the friends of the game on both sides of the Atlantic.

Willie Dunn has found time since his recent arrival from Europe, to go to Philadelphia, inspect the links of the Philadelphia Country Club, at the links of the Philadelphia Country Club, at Bala, and tell the members how their grounds may be improved. His advice is to be followed im-plicitly, with the result, as the Philadelphians hope, of producing one of the finest golf links in hope, of producing one of the finest golf links in the country. The limits will be greatly enlarged, and the many natural hazards utilized to the best advantage. Several of Dunn's favorite S-shaped bunkers will be thrown up near the holes. There are said to be nearly 400 members of the Philadelphia Country Club interested in the old Scottish game. Further proof of its progress in Pennsylvania is that Dunn has just laid out a private course for R. E. NEW STANDARD FOR TROTTERS. RULES OF REGISTRATION CHANGED BY THE trotting-horse pedigrees. The new rules are farreaching in effect and are as follows:

BREEDERS IN CHICAGO LAST WEEK Eastern horsemen will be interested in the proceedings of the American Trotting Register Asso-ciation at the annual meeting of the breeders in Chicago last Thursday, a new standard having been adopted to control future admission to Wallace's Trotting Register, the recognized authority for trotting-horse pedigrees. The new rules are far-reaching in effect and are as follows:

When an animal meets the requirements of any of the following provisions, and is duly registered, it shall be accepted as a standard-bred trotter.

The progeny of a registered standard trotting horse and a registered standard trotting many.

A stallion sired by a registered standard trotting horse, provided his sire and dam and grandam were sired by registered standard trotting horses, and he himself has a trotting record of 2.30 or better, or is the sire of three trotters having records of 2.39 or better.

E. A mare whose sire is a registered standard trotting horse, and whose dam and grandam were sired by registered standard trotting horses, proyield she herself has a record of 2.30 or better.

A mare sired by a registered standard trotting horse, provided she is the dam of two trotters havling records of 2.30 or better.

A mare sired by a registered standard trotting horse provided her first, second and third dams are all by registered standard trotting horses.

The progeny of a registered standard trotting horse out of a registered standard pacing mare, or of a registered standard pacing mare, or
of a registered standard pacing mare, or
of a registered standard trotting horse,

The effect of these rules is virtually to close the door to all families of trotting horses not now within the standard, there being no provision under gain admission to the Trotting Register by demonstrating his individual merit as a trotter and as a sire of trotters. Under the new rules performance is in a mensure discarded as the basis of standard, and pedigree becomes the first essential of admission to the studiook. A good many horsemen will be likely to question the wisdom of this radical change at the present time, the breed of trotting horses being yet in a formative state, with animals of comparatively obscure lineage flashing to the front every year in the Grand Circuit and defeating the best-bred trotters in the country.

Another radical change in the rules which will hardly meet with approval among Eastern horsemen is the one which admits to standard rank the progeny of a trotting-bred size and a pacing-bred dam, and vice versal, sinch breeders as Robert Bonner, General B. F. Tracy, Charles Eackman, J. C. Sibley and nearly all others of the East, are strongly opposed to any further intermixture of trotting and pacing blood, some of them believing, on the other hand, that the pacers now in the standard should be weedel out by a process of elimination, General Tracy once voiced the general sentiment among Eastern breelers by saying that he regarded every pacer by the action of the association, controlled by Western horsemen, enacted a similar provision for intermixing the trotters and pacers, in 1832, there was talk about a new studbook in New-York until the action of the association was rescinced.

POLITICAL ODDS AND ENDS.

RIENDS OF THE EX PRESIDENT SAY THE STATE WILL NOT BE SOLID FOR M'KINLEY.

Indianapolis, April 4.-The men who have come to be known as the "Harrison Stalwarts" are predict ing that McKinley will not have the solid vote of allot. Some of them go so far ey movement in different parts of the country. It who have been in a reasonable chance for his nomina-long as there is a reasonable chance for his nomina-tion may find themselves in an embarrassing situa-tion at the beginning of the convention. General Harrison, it is said, will have votes on the first ballot. One of the men who assisted in nominating the General at Chicago in 1888 and at Minneapolis in 1882 says that Vermont will vote for Harrison on the first ballot, and that he will have votes from other States, including one vote from Hinois.

"It is understood," said this politician, "that Proctor will cast the vote of Vermont for General Harrison on the first ballot."
"Will the delegates from Indiana support Mc Kinley when they know that General Harrison will receive votes on the first ballot?" The men who hope to see Harrison the nominee believe that by the time the date for the convention arrives there will have been such a change in public arrives there will have been such a change in public sentiment in the State that the thirty representatives of the State in the convention will feel it their duty to support General Harrison."

The "Harrison staiwarts" have only one fear, they say, and that is that the sentiment for Harrison may become so developed before the day of the convention that the General may deem it necessarily the state of the convention that the General may deem it necessarily the state of the convention that the General may deem it necessarily the state of the convention that the General may deem it necessarily the state of the convention that the General may deem it necessarily the state of the convention that the General may deem it necessarily the state of the convention that the General may deem it necessarily the state of the convention that the General may deem it necessarily the convention that the general may deem it necessarily the convention that the general may be convention that the general may be convention that the sentiment of the convention that the convention that the sentiment of the convention that the convention that the sentiment of the convention that th ever, he will keep silent, knowing, as he does, that the Republicans of Indiana, as well as the representatives of the party throughout the country, understand fully that he was in earnest when he wrote his former letter.

"We know the General is not a candidate," said one of his friends. "We know, too, that he does not want the nomination, under any circumstances, but if the Republicans of the Nation insist on making him a candidate, as we believe they will, he cannot blame us at home for being for him. It is known that he will not decline the nomination if it should come to him without any seeking on his part, no man would. All we ask of him is that he keep silent."

It is becoming more and more apparent to the part; no man would. All we ask of him is that he keep silent."

It is becoming more and more apparent to the party leaders here that the State Convention will have a delicate subject to deal with when it takes on the election of delegates at large, and the question as to whether there shall be instructions. The McKinley sentiment in the State is still strong, and some of his friends, who believe their future welfare in politics depends on his nomination and election, will probably insist upon the convention indorsing him. The "Harr'son stalwarts" will oppose such action. They will do ask that the convention say anything for General Harrison; they will demand that the convention elect trustworthy men delegates at large, and keep silent on the subject of instructions and inforsements.

another is the manufacture of cotton ties, the steel bands so necessary on the plantations of the South.

The purpose of the steel representatives to protect manufacturers and consumers from the operations of middlemen was embodied in the final arrangements made by the Executive Committee of the pool; the last details were adjusted to have all orders for billets come only through the channel designated by the combination, after the plan of the arrangement made by the Steel Rail Association. Orders will be received through the pool commissioner, who will distribute them among the manufacturers.

The members of the Executive Committee present at the closing conference included R. H. Hubbard, John G. A. Leishmann, president of the Carnegle Steel Company; Henry Wick and P. Stackhouse. Last night nearly all the steel

PRICE OF ICE TO BE ADVANCED.

THE CONSOLIDATED COMPANIES SAY THE SMALL

Friday afternoon to consider a proposition to ad-No decisive action was taken, and the meeting ad-journed till yesterday afternoon, but nothing was done, as there was not a quorum. The Consolidated Ice Company controls about 90 per cent of the Ice consumed in this city, Brooklyn and Jersey City. consumed in this city, Brooklyn and Jersey City.

Ifficers of these companies who took part in Friday's meeting declared that the lee harvest this year was so small that ice could not be profitably sold for less than B a ton. It is asserted that the harvest was the lightest since 1890, when the price of ice was $10 a ton. Retail dealers say that the harvest was as good as ever, but they believe that the Consolidated company will advance the price.

THE TRADE IN CHICAGO. Chicago, April 4 (Spec.al).-Wheat to-day advanced cent, and closed strong. May sold from 65% to 64%, and closed at 63% 663%.c. The market was most influenced iterated that the condition in that State would be less than 60. There were drouth complaints from Kansas, red. One charter was made of 80,000 bush, to go abroad via Raltimore.

Corn was very dull but firm. May selling between 2945c and 224c, and closing at 224c. The firmness was in sympathy with wheat. There were, however, very light receipts, only 173,000 bush to-day; only 175,000 estimated for Monday. Samples were 4c higher. Any increase in the speculation is expected to help prices.

Outs made a gain of 4c, sympathiting merely with the rally in wheat. There were small receipts, 139 cars this morning, 150 estimated for Monday. May sold from 104c to 194c, and closed at 195,9104c. Samples were firm. Provisions early were weak, getting to the lowest prices touched so far. May pork sold at 85 324g. May lard at $5. May ribs at $4.50. There was a little rally toward the close in sympathy with wheat. There were only 10,000 hogs; the estimate for Monday was only 25,000; the estimate for mext week only 129,000. Prices at the yards, however, were 5c lower. There is practically no improvement in the cash demand; certainly no increase in the general speculation. Packers continue to expect very large hog receipts.

On the curb puts on May wheat closed at 644sc, calls at 555-26c; puts on May corn closed at 205c, calls at 205c.
